THE WORLD

Nectar is an extraterrestrial biological substance that alters DNA, mutates ecosystems, and slowly spreads through the land.

The elite — known as the Crystal — secretly refine it to preserve youth and power.

The industrial outskirts — the Rust — survive among steam, patched metal, and creatures transformed by Nectar.

The world appears stable.

But that stability depends on a system built on sacrifice.

And that system is starting to break.

PROTAGONIST — KAIN

Kain is a protective warrior bound by a strict moral rule:

He does not kill.

He neutralizes.

Raised to believe his power is a terminal illness, he lives under constant restraint, convinced that violence will trigger his own collapse.

His sister — who knows the truth about his origin — maintains the lie to protect him from becoming something the world cannot control.

When Kain discovers he was part of a hidden experiment connected to the origin of Nectar — and loses the one person who kept him grounded — the restraint breaks.

He does not seek redemption.

He does not seek power.

But his actions begin to change the balance of the world.
